

2009 Local Association
Outstanding Volunteer of the Year

A local beekeeping association's success depends on its members helping each other, mentoring new beekeepers, and educating the public about the wonders of the honey bees and beekeeping. Some member's names always appear on the volunteer lists; they can be counted on to do whatever job needs doing, from greeting guests at the door to sweeping the floors. They give freely of their time and never want any recognition...associations can't survive without them...

This year the Florida State Beekeepers Association will be honoring one member of each local beekeeping association as "Outstanding Local Association Volunteer of the Year," at its 88th Annual Meeting, Thursday-Saturday, October 30-November 1, 2008, at the Florida Farm Bureau, Gainesville, FL. The recipients will be honored at the Awards Banquet on Friday evening.

Nominations must be received no later than Monday, October 13th. The submission should include the name of your beekeeping association, recipient's full name, and a short biography emphasizing the volunteer's contribution to your local association. Send information to Elmore Herman, Executive Director, and P.O. Box 105, Marianna, FL 32447. Contact him at 850-557-3409, millebee@earth-comm.com.

Detach Here _____

Local Association Volunteer of the Year Award

Name of Association _____
Recipient's Name _____
Address(not required) _____
City/State(not required) _____ Zip Code _____
Phone (not required) _____
Reasons why this member should receive award for Volunteer of the Year

